In my opinion rugby league should continue its evolution around two key platforms - fan engagement & player safety. The HeadSmart Sports Concussion Programme would help address the growing concern of brain injuries in the game.

During my second concussion in a short period of time I was put in contact with Dr Ryan Kohler, mainly through video call at my convenience. He was brilliant, very helpful and easy to understand. He went into great detail as to trying to understand my symptoms and grasp the severity of my head injury, asking questions and covering each symptom thoroughly. Ryan also made me feel very at ease by going into detail with me why certain symptoms were occurring, putting my mind at rest, and also giving me tips on how to prevent some symptoms worsening from everyday actions (standing up etc). I would like to thank Ryan and his team for making him easily contactable for me, and also helping me get back to full recovery.
